This lesson on The Aide's Role in Wound Care includes a complete training packet. Each in-service packet takes approximately one hour to complete and fully meets the Medicare in-service training requirements. As aides need training, you can make as many copies as you want - there's no restriction when used with aides assigned from your office location. Remember that Home Health Aides must have 12 hours of in-service training every year. LESSON OBJECTIVES After completion of this program, the home health aide will be able to: Name two types of wound dressings a home health aide might change List three signs and symptoms that should be reported Describe the basic steps in changing a simple dressing, and List two reasons why a dressing may be used. LESSON OVERVIEW Home health aides can often provide simple wound care to patients. They can be especially useful in cases in which the wound care does not require the skills of a nurse, but no caregiver is available to do it. While the duties of unlicensed staff may vary from one state to another, almost all states allow properly trained aides to perform certain wound care procedures and dressing changes. The purpose of this in-service is to provide basic information all home health aides should know before performing wound care. Once the aide has mastered this education, he or she will require minimal patient-specific information prior to providing proper wound care.
