Created for Connection: Your Calling as a Communicator in Today's World urges students to realize their God-given calling to be redemptive communicators - authentic lovers of God who interact with the world and with other people in a way that, above all, promotes the things He cherishes. Students are challenged to see their prospective vocations primarily as platforms for advancing the things God values through instructional content, personality profiles, and timely occupational descriptions. Created for Connection: Your Calling as a Communicator in Today's World includes topics on: What communication means How communication works How worldviews impact one's view of communication's value Why autonomous views of communication are deficient Why a Biblical view of communication is plausible How redemptive thinking impacts one's communicative practices How one can communicate redemptively in a variety of job fields
